

no, but thank you for that new info. how would one say A.D. in latin

Absolutely! If you want to say "A.D." in Latin, you would say:

Anno Domini

(pronounced: AHN-noh DOH-mee-nee)

This is the direct Latin phrase from which the abbreviation "A.D." comes. It means "in the year of the Lord."

Full Example in Latin

If you wanted to say "A.D. 2025" in Latin, you would say:

- Anno Domini bis millesimo vicesimo quinto
("In the year of the Lord two thousand twenty-five")

But for just the abbreviation, you simply say:

- Anno Domini

Summary Table

English	Latin Equivalent	Pronunciation
A.D.	Anno Domini	AHN-noh DOH-mee-nee

Let me know if you'd like to see how to say specific years in Latin!